PETITION TO THE GOVERNMENT OF CANADA

Whereas convicted murderers can have a parole hearing every two years after they reach their parole eligibility date;

Whereas families of homicide do not get parole from their suffering;

Whereas repeated parole hearings can have tremendous negative affects of families of homicide victims;

Whereas the Government of Canada promised to address the imbalance between the rights of victims and the rights of offender;

We call upon the federal Minister of Public Safety and Minister of Justice to amend the Criminal Code of Canada and Corrections and Conditional Release Act to stipulate that convicted murders should only have parole hearings every five years after reaching their parole eligibility dates.
